- a. The Agfa plant at Wolfen no longer sells its products to Rasno-Export but rather delivers it to the newly-established Soviet "Linse" firm. The deliveries are not paid for, and constitute a form of reparations.
- b. Potash from the Russian Zone is not, as was planned, being sent to Bizonia, but is exported instead to Poland. Officials of the Main Division for Foreign and Interzonal Trade have learned that the potash does not remain in Poland, but is delivered to Rasno-Export in Leningrad.
- c. The Foreign Trade Division of the SMA has sold 2,800 tons of synthetic rubber to Poland at the price of $475 per ton.
- d. The entire creolite production of the Dohnawerke in Saxony—an annual output of 2,700 tons—is being confiscated for reparations.
